separates, dresses, accessories and going out looks. The store selection will be refreshed weekly, giving in-store shoppers a first look at what's new at Lulus. The launch of the Melrose store location is a follow up to the success of the previous pop-up experience in Los Angeles, which has emerged as a business hub for the brand.

"As a brand that prides itself on listening to our customers to bring them what they want, now is the perfect time in our business trajectory to bring the Lulus digital experience to life," said Crystal Landsem, CEO of Lulus. "Shoppers want to touch and feel and immerse themselves in brands and our new storefront delivers this in spades. Everything from the details of the location, to the craftsmanship and quality of our offerings, to price points that embody attainable luxury, Lulus' new store is destined to become the location that Millennial and Gen Z customers feel really gets them and can't wait to visit again and again."

With Love, from Los Angeles

Set against a backdrop of LA's eclectic fashion hub, the store features dramatic, curved display fixtures, layered textures, mosaic patterns and pops of neon and brushed silver. The store's aesthetic elicits a social environment, with several Instagrammable vignettes unique to Lulus. The exterior of the store offers additional backdrops for social conversation with a custom billboard spotlighting Lulus campaign messaging. LA's dynamic and ever-evolving fashion scene aligns with Lulus' commitment to staying at the forefront of style and innovation. The store will not only serve as a retail space but also as a hub for creativity and inspiration, where customers can connect with the heart of Lulus. In early 2024, the Melrose location will also be home to the brand's first appointment-only bridal boutique, which will give future brides and bridal parties alike an opportunity to experience Lulus' accessibly-priced bridal and bridesmaids gowns in a beautifully curated setting. More details to be announced later.

"Our decision to open our first retail store in Los Angeles holds profound significance for our brand – by opening up this retail location, we are testing and learning as we expand the reach of our brand," furthered Landsem. "More importantly, we're attracting new customers, enabling them to experience luxury fashion that's attainable, and bringing them in as lifelong fans to the Lulus community."

The first Lulus store opened in Northern California in 1996 and by 2008, the brand shifted to solely digital distribution. The opening of the new store marks a significant milestone in Lulus' evolution and is a direct response to consumers' desire for a physical retail presence. In addition to the Melrose store, Lulus has expanded its retail footprint through curated collections in numerous fashion boutiques and department stores across the country. Lulus' retail presence in Los Angeles builds on the connection the brand has built with its online and boutique communities, enabling the brand to connect with both new and existing shoppers in a completely new and inspired shopping experience.
